

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

Under an order obtained from Judge Marvin at Friday's session of the superior court in Putnam, Alfred Pate, receiver for the Putnam Worsted company of East Killingly, will be in a position to sell parcels of the machinery and other equipment of the plant or the property as a whole. This end is desirable in order that the claims of creditors may be satisfied in so far as may be possible from what is realized. Some of the items already have been sold under an order of the court for $2500. It is hoped by the receiver, who was represented in court by Judge Sabin S. Russell Friday morning, to realize a total of $10,000 from the sale of the plant and its equipment. Creditors are anxious to close the company's affairs as soon as possible so that prospective buyers at the plant during the winter season may be aided.

Friday morning Undertaker L. E. Kennedy was at Providence to bring Mrs. St. Joseph's hospital in that city to the body of Mrs. Bridget O'Connor, 53. She was the wife of John O'Connor, who died about two years ago. Mrs. O'Connor was a native of Derby, this state, and who before marriage was Bridget O'Connor, an orphan.

At the home of her father, Felix Lajunen, on the West Side, Lajunen occurred the death of Mrs. O'Connor. She had been in the hospital for several months. Mrs. O'Connor was a native of Derby, this state, and who before marriage was Bridget O'Connor, an orphan.

It was stated Friday that there will be no election of independent candidates on the ballots to be used at the annual town election in Killingly on the 20th of September. All voters who wish to vote such independent candidates must present themselves or for any other qualified person whose name does not appear on the ballot will be required to sign in each name in the manner provided for that purpose on the ballot.

Announcement was made in Hartford of the engagement of Miss Alice Barlow, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William O. Barlow of Fairfield, Conn., to Charles M. Lawton, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Lawton of Brooklyn. The bride-to-be is a graduate of the Mary Institute of St. Louis and at present is a student in the Hartford school of nursing.

The first fall meeting of Sarah Williams Danielson chapter, D. A. R., was held in the vestry of the Congregational church, Thursday afternoon. After the business meeting, Miss Elizabeth Woodworth read the August message of the General Conference. Two were singing selections—the Connecticut State Song and May Day—sung by the D. A. R. quartet—Miss Lillian Capwell, Mrs. Herbert C. Adams, Mrs. Louis Ingalls and Miss Lillian Capwell.

Following these features of the afternoon's program a reception was held in honor of the outgoing and incoming regents.

The hostesses for the afternoon were Miss L. S. Ingalls, Miss Marion D. Chollar, Mrs. C. C. Young and Miss Daisy Putnam.

At 12:30 Friday afternoon, a prayer service for John H. Perry was conducted at his home at Putnam, followed at 1 o'clock by a public service at the Congregational church in Dayville, Rev. William Swanson, who had charge of the service.

Good progress has been made throughout the present week in the grading operations on the new state highway between Danielson and South Killingly. There is so much grading to be done on the route to be built, however, that this part of the work is expected to be completed not before the early summer of next year.

Relatives from Killingly were at Central Village Friday to attend the funeral of James P. Shannessy, who died Wednesday. Burial was in St. James cemetery.

R. G. Handcock of Providence was in Danielson Friday on a business trip. The annual convention of the Windham County Sunday school association is to be held in Brooklyn October 10th. Native fall bearing strawberries are now being offered in town at 30 cents per basket.

A few from this section were at Sturbridge Friday to attend the annual fair, one of the best of its kind in this part of New England.

It has been stated that there is a likelihood that the New Haven railroad will open its passenger station here on Sunday evenings at 7:30, something that has not been done for many months.

A religious meeting of members of the Baptist church was held at the home of W. J. Craig Friday afternoon. Miss Abby Simmons, a graduate of Killingly High school, in the class of 1921 is to enter Simmons college.

Misses B. T. and Margaret Duggan have returned after three weeks' stay with their sister, Mrs. M. M. Wilder in Ludlow, Mass. Part of the time was spent at Camp Alnashag.

PUTNAM

Friday morning the police of this city took possession of a practically new Buick, 1922, roadster that was abandoned on the state highway near the children's home late Thursday afternoon. The car was driven in by Officer William Jarvis.

Captain J. H. Bulger ascertained through a telephone conversation with the Worcester police that the car, which bore Massachusetts 21-336 registration plates, is the property of William Burns of that city. Mr. Burns, it appears, had already notified the Worcester police that his car had been taken from him at or near Blackstone earlier this week by four men, one of whom threatened him with a revolver.

As to who brought the car into this territory and the circumstances surrounding its being abandoned, the police here were without information up to Friday afternoon. There are indications that point to its having been used as a booze runner since it was stolen from the station here the officers discovered the back cushion had been cut away at the bottom and reaching up inside the officers pulled out a number of straw and paper covers such as one used to cover bottles of liquor in the days when that kind of stuff was made in this country. Nnot a one of the covers contained anything but emptiness, however.

When the seat cushion was in place there was nothing to indicate that the back cushion was not in just the same condition as in the average car. The cushions were taken to a local garage and will be kept there until it is turned over to its owner. It is believed the men who have had it drove it to the outskirts of this city and then abandoned it and took a train out of Putnam of some unknown destination.

At the request of the police of Coatesville, Pa., the police here visited a house at 27 Main street at 12:30 Friday morning and arrested Adolovito Capobianco, wife of a Coatesville man, and Dominicko Sasso, with whom it is charged, she has been living here as her husband. The couple have an infant two months old with them here in Putnam, the child's father, the husband of Mrs. Capobianco, being represented by the Coatesville police as deserted, with two other children, in the Pennsylvania city, from which city, the Coatesville police, who accompanied here from ten days ago, Captain J. H. Bulger said that he understands that the couple arrived here the first of this week and have been visiting at the home of Sasso's sister on Main street.

It was not known definitely whether any action would be taken locally against the couple. Soon after their arrest Captain Bulger telegraphed the chief of police of Coatesville that the couple was being held here and a reply received later said that an officer with the necessary papers would come to Putnam for them.

Capobianco is a decidedly attractive young woman, 24 years of age. She told Captain Bulger that she deserted her husband because he had failed to support her and their children and that recently it was necessary to cause his arrest on a non-support charge. Sasso is about the same age as Mrs. Capobianco.

Cases were assigned, a demurrer argued. The hostesses for the afternoon were Miss L. S. Ingalls, Miss Marion D. Chollar, Mrs. C. C. Young and Miss Daisy Putnam.

lowed for $30,000. No buyer was obtained at that figure. On July 12 another order was issued by the court under which sale of the loans at the plan was authorized and $8,300 was realized from the disposal of this part of the mill company's equipment.

Since that various offers have been obtained by the receiver for other machinery and for portions of the property. It was to give the receiver authority to accept some of these offers that the order was asked for at the present time. Judge Russell said, and he expressed his opinion that if the receiver were given the authority to sell lots of machinery separate and the property as advantage might offer that at least $20,000, including the $8,300 received for the loans already disposed of would be obtained. If the property is not sold before cold weather it will be necessary to maintain a watchman and thorman, Judge Russell said, at considerable expense to the creditors, who are anxious to have the affairs of the company closed.

Antonio Kleba, of Willimantic, claimed a divorce on the ground of desertion from Frank Kleba, now of parts unknown. Mrs. Kleba testified that she was married to Kleba in Poland on May 2, 1912, and that after living with her for five months he left her and came to the United States. May 17, 1913, a daughter was born to her. At that time she was living with her parents. For a time after Kleba reached America she received letters from him, but these finally ceased and eventually through friends she learned that her husband was living in this country with another woman whom she knew before the woman left Poland. In 1916 Mrs. Kleba, who was represented by Attorney Samuel Harvel, came to this country and located in Willimantic, where her brother resided. She learned eventually that Kleba was living at Amsterdam, N. Y., but upon going there to confront him she discovered that she was just too late, as he had left for parts unknown. Finally she learned that he was at Stafford Springs, living with another woman as his wife. She caused his arrest by Chief Daniel Killenbury of the Willimantic police, who was a witness for her in court on Friday. Two children at the Kleba home in Stafford Springs Kleba admitted as being his and which he was arraigned in court in Willimantic admitted he filed the woman he was living with better than his wife. He was ordered to pay his wife $10 a week at that time and did so for awhile. Later he was again arrested and served a year in jail.

One contested divorce case was heard in the superior court here this week—that of William N. Sweet vs. Grace A. Sweet, of Sterling. Mr. Sweet alleged cruelty against his wife and in court set out many details which cannot appear in print to substantiate his charges of intolerable cruelty. Judge Marvin took the papers in the case reserving decision. Attorney A. G. Hill of Danielson was counsel for Mr. Sweet, Attorney Perkins of Norwich for Mrs. Sweet.

Members of the Cohasset Golf club of Southbridge will be entertained by the Putnam Country club members this (Saturday) afternoon. William S. Johnson of Church street is contemplating a trip to Bermuda during the early fall. A number of people from this city were at Sturbridge Friday to attend the fair.

There will be a session of the superior court here Thursday for naturalization, and a considerable list of cases is awaiting attention. Friday a session for naturalization will be held at Willimantic.

Motorists are complaining that some cars being operated at night in this territory are equipped with headlights that are so glaring as to be a menace to drivers of approaching cars.

Mrs. M. C. Leonard had members of the W. C. T. U. at her home for a meeting Friday afternoon.

A goat that was part of a load of equipment being carried through this city on a light motor truck in charge of Mystic Shriners of Newbury, R. I., enroute to Hartford attracted attention

Friday noon. Scores of new volumes have been added to the files of the public library of the town of Thompson.

Only one more week of the daylight saving schedule, which Putnam has ignored, but which has caused much inconvenience for local people that have traveling to do.

Very light frosts were reported from some of the low lying section hereabouts Friday morning, but there was no serious damage to growing things.

Plans are being made for a carnival at the Methodist church during the early part of October.

It is an undisputed fact that some men do not have any more sense when they get married than they did when they were born.
